EVTA'S FINAL REPORT-TRAINEE

This month has been my first working experience. I have just finished the 1st course of Advertisement and Public Relationships and Journalism, so I am very happy because during this period I could deal with things I studied at University.

During the first days I started to have contact with EVTA, reading a lot about the association and trying to learn how it works and how the employees are working. When I was more or less prepared I started to help as much as I could.

I learnt how to work, the importance of the schedules, how to treat the employees. My first days passed filling dates, preparing documents and, which I really enjoyed, making translations. I translated some texts from English into Spanish and I also translated EVTA's website. I helped by looking for some important news that could be interesting for our website.

The past two weeks were very different because I had to include my personal view and what I learnt at college to some issues such as trying to reach the attractiveness of VET in relation with University. This was a big opportunity because I didn't know much about this topic, so I had to read a lot and learn about it. I found pros and contras and I tried to put them together to reach my objective: make it a system, make it attractive to parents and students, and make them see there is another way for entering the labor market even more technical than university.

To sum up, this experience has taught me a lot of things, personal things and working skills. I can only be thankful to EVTA and I am very happy for allowing me to have this big opportunity of working and of doing it in a foreign country, which has made me mature and teach me how to pass along successfully with the real problems in life.
